ATLANTIC GIGANTIC

Places We ve Been LLC, United States, 2015. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 214 x 149 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Life is out there for anyone who seeks it and here is a great example. Colin and his crewmates seize this opportunity to sail the Gambo across the northern Atlantic despite fear and common sense warning against it, embodying a real spirit of adventure. - Mike Robinson, chief executive for the Royal Scottish Geographical Society Every year, millions of people come to Scotland by land, sea and air, to bask in a country that boasts spectacular scenery, a rich history and culture and the warmest of welcomes. The journey to Scotland is very much part of the overall visitor experience and I think it s safe to say that Colin Souness and his friends undertook a more adventurous and thrilling journey than most to return to the land of his birth. The timing of Atlantic Gigantic is very apt following our hugely successful Year of Homecoming - a year-long celebration of the very best of Scottish culture - and I would like to congratulate Colin and company on their successful voyage! - Mike Cantlay, chairman of VisitScotland -- For anyone who thinks that science is a boring game of white coats and dry numbers, here is a book which might make you think again. ATLANTIC GIGANTIC tells the story of how three young scientists-glaciologists Sam Doyle and Colin Souness, and marine biologist Matt Burdekin-wound up in Greenland as part of a cutting-edge climate research project and found themselves sailing home across the North Atlantic Ocean. Brought together and offered the chance by a top UK climate scientist, these three, despite being little more than novice sailors, found themselves volunteering to sail an expeditionary...
